How do I avoid getting scammed with solar panels?

To avoid getting scammed, you need to know what to look out for and when to walk away. Here's our guide to spotting solar panel scams and finding a great installer. If something you see or hear from a salesperson sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

Are solar panels a scam?

Scammers often advertise "$0 down on owning solar panels" or "solar panels at no cost" but don't disclose that the homeowner won't own the panels. Lease and PPA agreements typically prevent homeowners from benefiting from most federal and state incentive programs and also have hidden fees and unfriendly financial terms.

How do I avoid a bad solar deal?

After arming yourself with knowledge about how solar works, the very best way to avoid a bad deal is to get multiple solar quotes and compare them. Use what you've learned to compare the solar quotes, and also use the information each company gives you. You might find that one installer will include information that another does not.

What are the most common solar scams?

One of the most prevalent solar scams involves misleading lease agreements or power purchase agreements (PPAs). While these financing options are legitimate ways to access solar energy, unethical companies may misrepresent the terms or benefits of these agreements.
