Do utility PPAs have a mechanical availability guarantee?

Mechanical-availability guarantees had become rare in utility PPAs where the utility had RPS obligations to satisfy, but they are standard in PPAs where the offtaker is a corporate or industrial user, due to accounting issues that cause these offtakers to prefer an availability guarantee over an output guarantee. C. Liquidated Damages.

How much did SolarCity pay for TCPA violations?

SolarCity paid $15 million in 2018 to resolve similar TCPA claims. More recently, in February 2020, consumers filed a class action against Sunlight Solar based on allegations of similar TCPA violations. Such allegations may not only subject companies to consumer class actions, but also fall within the purview of the Federal Trade Commission.
